COMMERCIAL EPITOME.

FRIDAY NIGHT, Feb. 21, 1873.

There has been no decided change during the past week in the tone of the markets for merchandize, and even less fluctuation than usual in prices. Speculation is dormant, and the regular trade held in check by many circumstances, most of them temporary in their nature, yet with little prospect of their immediate removal. In foreign merchandize the difficulty and high cost of transportation, together with a pretty general feeling among buyers that prices are not likely to go any higher; and in domestic produce, in addition to these, the deficiency of supplies, or high prices, or scarcity of ocean freights, and sometimes all three, are among the influences which have contributed to a dull trade. It is now eight weeks that our business streets have been obstructed with show.

Provisions generally have ruled firmer. Pork has advanced, and has sold at $14 874 for new mess on the spot, but the business has been mainly for future delivery, at $14 55@14 60 for March, $14 65@14 70 for April, and $14 75 for May and June; old mess has brought $14 25 in a jobbing way. Lard has also raled higher, and has been very active for March delivery, the sales reported in one day being 7,500 tierces prime Western, at 8 7.16c.; other business has been done at 8gc. for prime on the apot and for February, and at 8fc. for kettle rendered. Bacon has been active and higher; long clear has sold on the spot and to arrive at 74@7$c., short clear at 7$@7$c. on the spot, long and ahort clear for March at 71@7 9-16c., and Cumberland on the spot at 7ac. Other cut meats have been in good demand, and show some advance; dry salted meat has been wanted for export; shoulders have sold at 51,051c. on the spot, and 51c. for Ma ch for ahort cut hams of 20 lbs. average 101c. was tid. A large business was done yesterday in Westera pickled hams at 111c., with some speculation. Beef has been quiet but steady. Butter has been in moderate demand and weak for the medium grades. Iu cheese there has been a good demand for the lower grades for export, at 9@15c.; prime to choice factories quoted at 16@162c. To-day bacon was firmer, at 8c. for short clear and 71c. for long clear. Lard was rather stronger, but not quotably higher, and March contracts sold at 8 7-16c.

The market for tobacco has been very quiet. Of Kentucky leaf the sales have been only 200 hhds., of which one half for consumption and one half for export. There is very little old crop left on sale, and prices are nominal; new crop quoted 8@8$c. for lugs, and 9@13c. for leaf. Seed leaf quiet; sales 200 cases sundries, crop of 1870, at 10@12c., and 300 cases Connecticut, crop of 1871, at 47@65c. Spanish tobacco in moderate demand, with sales 400 bales Havana at 95@$1 10.

Freights have been a little more active. Room on the berth has been to a fair extent, and rates to British ports have been comparatively low, showing some decline to Liverpool; but vessels for charter have been exceedingly scarce, and most of the business done has been in vessels to arrive. Late engagements include grain to Liverpool by steam at 62@7d., a decline of $\frac{1}{2}d, and bacon at 40s., a decline of 5s., with cotton at $\frac{1}{2}05-16d.; corn to Cork for orders 7s. 3d.; patioleum to German ports at 6s. 8d.@6s. 6d. To-day the rate for corn to Liverpool by steam closed at 6\frac{1}{2}d., and there was a charter for petroleum to Gibraltar and the Mediterranean at 37c.

Tallow has been firm but less active at $\frac{3}{3}\rightarrow{\text{0}}\text{c.} for good to choice. Cloverseed has declined to 9c., but closes active. Whiskey has been down to $\frac{91}{4}\text{c.}, but has recovered, and closes at $\frac{92}{2}\text{c.} Rosin has been firm, but comparatively quiet at $\frac{3}{3} \cdot 75 for strained. Spirits turpentine has been in better demand, with sales at $67\tilde{6}8\frac{1}{2}\text{c.}; closing at the lower price.

Petroleum has been more active, and the transactions reported in Petroleum has been more active, and the transactions reported in the past lew days aggregate 60,000 bbls. refined at 20c., for March and April, and 20½c. for May, in this market, and 10½c for April, in Philadelphia; crude quoted 8½c., in bulk; naphtha, 8c., in bulk, and 14@15c., in shipping order. To-day the market was steady and the demand still good.

Wool has further declined, and late sales include domestic fleece at 58@60c.; unwashed do., 40@42½c.; Syrian at 15@16½c. for unwashed; and 21½@27c. for washed; Cape quoted 35@38c; Buenos Ayres Mestiza, 27@37c. Oils have been firm, but quiet. Hops have been dull. East India goods have been quiet, but Calcutta linseed sold early in the week at $2 67½ gold to arrive. In domestic gunny cloth there has been a large movement, the sales aggregating about 10,000 rolls, part at 12½@13c. for immediate delivery. Calcutta cloth is nominal. Hides and leather have been in fair demand and firm. Fish shows no change. Foreign fruits are firmer; layer raislas and currants, 6½@6½c. Metals have been wholly without change.

Exports of Leading Articles from New York.

The following table, compiled from Custom House returns, shows the exports of leading articles from the port of New York since January 1, 1873, to all the principal foreign countries, and also the totals for the last week, and since January 1. The last two lines show total values, including the value of all other articles besides those mentioned in the table.

WEATHER REPORTS BY TELEGRAPH.—There has been an unusual fall of rain the past week which has in some sections interfered with the free marketing of the crop. At New Orleans It has been showery more than half the week. At Selma they have had heavy rain storms during four days; our telegram also states had heavy rain storms during four days; our telegram also states that the overflow of the Alabama is greater than last summer, but that no serious damage has been done except plantling preparations have been retarded. It has rained three days at Mobile and Moutgomery; as the week closes there is a favorable change; rains have made it necessary to suspend ploughing. Our correspondents at Columbus, Macon and Savanah say that it has rained more than half the week, and at Charleston that it has rained on three days—the Savanah telegram adding that there has been an unusually severe storm, and the Columbus dispatch speaking of the rain as excessive interfering we suppose it means with farm unusually severe storm, and the Columbus dispatch speaking of the rain as excessive, interfering, we suppose it means, with farm work. It has also rained more than half the week at Memphis and Nashville. Our correspondents at Memphis state that the rivers are all open and that an overflow is imminent. The ther-mometer at Memphis has averaged 51, at Charleston 58, Colum-bus 60, Macon 58, ontgomery 59, Savannah 59, and at Selma 57. THE COTTON EXCHANGE AND FUTURE CONTRACTS.—The poor average quality of the crop has continued to be the subject of remark; and, with a view to guard against the possibilities of the future, the members of the New York Cotton Exchange met yesterday and adopted the following resolution:

Resolved, That, from and after the 1st day of September next, ordinary cotton be included in contract deliveries; that not more than twenty-five per cent. of ordinary and twenty five per cent. of strict ordinary shall be delivered ou any contract per 100 bales; that no notice be taken in public report, or in printed circulars of sales of any other contracts, and that no other contract be sales of any other contr stamped by the Exchange.

COAL SUPPLY AND COTTON MANUFACTURE.—The extraordinary rise in the price of coal in Great Britain is becoming a serious matter to manufacturers there. We would refer our readers to our London correspondent's letter to-day for a clear statement of the present condition of the coal trade. A private letter from Liverpool of the same date to a leading firm in this city adds that the rise in the price of coal already represents 4d, per lb. on 40s. twist, or say 2 per cent Thus coal, iron and labor are all serving to increase the cost of English manufactures at the present time.

CONSUMPTION OF COTTON IN EUROPE — CONTINENT.—We would call attention to an editorial article on this subject in another part of this paper.

BOMBAY SHIPMENTS .- According to our cable dispatch received to-day, there have been 20,000 bales shipped from Bombay to Great Britain the past week and 7,000 bales to the continent, while the receipts at Bombay, during the same time have been 37,000 bales. The movement since the first of January is as follows. These are the figures of W. Nicol & Co., of Bombay, and are brought down to Thursday, Feb. 20:

Shipments this week to-Great Con-Britain, tinent, Total, 1873... 20,000 7,000 27,000 1372... 17,000 11,000 28,000 1871... 20,000 9,500 Shipments since Jan. t to— Week's Great Con-Britain, thent. Total, receipts 83,000 36,000 119,000 37,00 134,000 53,000 217,000 38,00 Total. receipts. 119,000 37,000 217,000 38,000 27,80029,500 104,000 131,800

From the foregoing it would appear that compared with last year there is an increase this year in the week's shipments to Great Britain of 3,000 bales, and that the total movement since Jan. shows a decrease in shipments of 98,000 bales compared with the corresponding period of 1872.

The unfavorable report with regard to the crop which we received by cable last week was the result of a frost in the more northern districts of India. No reference is made to it in to-day's despatch.

GUNNY BAGS, BAGGING, &c .- There has been quite an active market for bagging the past day or two, some 11,500 rolls do-mestic having been sold. Sales embrace about 2,800 rolls in Boston immediate delivery at  $19\frac{1}{2}$ c. cash, and 300 rolls here at  $19\frac{1}{4}$ c cash, and about 3,500 rolls future delivery in Boston at  $19\frac{1}{4}$ e and possibly 14c., and about 5,000 rolls here at  $19\frac{1}{4}$ e 14c. At the and possibly 14c., and about 5,000 rolls here at 13\(^1\)@\[ \] 4c. At the close holders are very firm, and ask 14\(^1\)@\[ \] 4\(^1\) for April and May delivery, while we hear 14\(^1\)c. is offered for July and August delivery. Immediate delivery is held at 13\(^1\)@\[ \] 13\(^1\) cash. India bales and Borneo dull, and no sales reported. Bags remain quiet, and no sales reported. Holders are still firm at 15c. cash. The sales of butts, since our last, as reported, are comparatively small, say 500 bales here and 600 bales in Boston, at 2\(^1\)c. cash and time; but an offer of 2 3-16 might buy one or two parcels.

VISIBLE SUPPLY OF COTTON MADE UP BY CABLE AND TELE GRAPH.—By cable we have to night the stocks at the different European ports, the India cotton after for all of Europe, and the American after for each port as given below. From figures thus received, we have prepared the following table, showing the quantity of cotton in sight at this date (Feb. 21) of each of the

BREADSTUFFS

FRIDAT P. M., Feb. 21, 1873.

The markets for flour and grain have been very dull during the past week, but while prices have been generally weak, there is very little decline to be noted.

Flour has come forward quite freely by rail, and there has been some disposition to press sales from the wharf, nuder which some of the leading grades have given way a little in prices. Good to prime brands of extra State and Western have been offered in large lines at $7 30@$7 50, but bids to a considerable extent at 5@10c. under these prices; some low Western extras, however, have sold at $7 10. Superfine has deellined about 25c. per bbl. The medium grades have ruled duil at weakening prices. To-day the market was very quiet, as usual, on the eve of two holidays, with a severe storm prevailing.

Wheat has ruled extremely dull, but with a small stock and high cost of laying it down here from the West by rail, holders have firmly maintained prices for spring wheat. Winter wheat has sold to a limited extent at easier prices. The business done has included prime No. 3 spring at $1 55@1 56, and No. 2 Milwankee at $1 68, but there are few buyers at these prices. To day there was some business for milling, embracing No. 2 Chicago at $1 60 to arrive, and $1 62 in store; fair No. 2 Mtlwaukee, $1 67, and amber winter Canadian at $1 93, duty paid.

Rye has remained dull and nominal.

Barley has met with some demand, but for the most part bida are much below the views of holders.

Oats have been firmer, but have latterly receded, owing to increased supplies by rail. To-day the market was very flat.

Indian corn has met with a better demand, both for export and the home trade, and after a considerable business in old mixed Western at 63 c. in store, and 66c. afloat, the market improved. The approach of Spring, when the rivers will be clear of ice, stimulates the demand for coastwise shipment, epecially to the Northeast, and in the meantime stocks in store are being rapidly depleted. Receipts at the Western markets continue large To-day the market was easier, and a few boat loads of prime old mixed sold at 64c., in store, and 664c., afloat.

GROCERIES.

FRIDAY EVENING, Feb. 21, 1873. While the jobbing trade has improved somewhat during the past week, the market has not become very active, and the business is scarcely up to expectations. The transactions in first hands are on a fairly liberal scale and the market continues to rule firm for all of the leading lines, raw augara showing more buoyancy than at the time of our last report. The trade in coffee has been restricted by the non-arrival of supplies of Rio, which are much needed, the stock here having run very low. In foreign fruits there is very little doing, but the market rules fairly steady on all lines. Spices are selling more freely and are generally firm.

TEA.

Business in teas was rather flat during the early part of the week, and the market failed to show any features of laterest nutil about the middle of the week, when trade revived, with a considerable movement of stock resulting. The line business has been fairly setive, and, with a liberal distribution of the stock held by second hands, the demand for full invoices has increased materially. The transactions in the way of invoices have been fair for several days and prices are sustained with a fair degree of steadiness, closing without quotable change. The stock is becoming somewhat more controllable, although there is yet a large supply for the current wants of the trade. Oolongs are well maintained and continue to be in fair request, with the offerings ample but somewhat reduced. Japans are selling to a moderate extent at un changed rates, with a fairly firm feeling manifested by holders. Greens have sold at full prices and considerable transactions have been closed. The particulars of the week's sales are as follows: 7,410 ha chests Japans, 3,294 do. Souchongs, 7.792 do. Greens, and 5,180 Oolongs.

Imporis the past week have included 456,370 bs. Japan, per "Eastern Chief," from Yokohama; 445,091 do. do., per "Ceylon," from same port; 10,600 do. Black, per "Annestey," from Ilong Kong; 36,520 do, do., and 8,700 do. Green, per "S. G. Glover," from same port, and 2,472 do Black, and 70,555 do. Green, per "S. D. Carleton," from same port.

The following table shows the imports of Tea into the United States from January 1 to date, in 1873 and 1872:

Atlantic ports, 1873...lbs. Black Green. Japan. Totsl. Atlantic ports, 1872...... 324,467 4,032,322 4,273,746 12,722,141 The indirect receipts at New York, principally overland receipts from San Francisco, have beer 12,208 pkgs. since Janusry 1, against 29,002 last year. Imports at San Francisco from Jan. 1 to Feb. 1, were 70,245 lbs. of China and 296,190 lbs. of Japan tea.

COFFEE.

There has been a good jobbing trade in coffees since our last report, and considérable amounts of both Brazil and India grades have gone out of second bands in lots for distribution. The non-arrival of the steamer from Rio has left the market without very liberal offerings in first hands, and the selections of jobbers have been restricted in consequence, so that we have very few transactions to record. There was a Rio telegram in on Wednesday which salvised a decline from 9$500, as previously quoted to 9$700. This reduction was fully offset, however, by the advance in exchange, and there would be no lessening in the cost of landing coffees here to-day against that of a week ago. Holders are etill very firm and adhere to full rates, but buyers rather seek to depress the market, though it is thought that they will be ready operators when the offerings become more liberal. The Iodia grades continue in very small supply, and are only moving to the extent of the light trade requirements. There has been a little West India stock received, but the supply is still Illiberal, and prices are firmly maintained at the quotations given in our last report. The sales reported during the week are 420 bags St. Domingo, sold into consumption, and 700 bags shipped to Europe. At Mobile 3,800 bags Rio ex "Water Witch," 4,000 ex "Danuless." Also at Baltimore 3.000 bags ex "May Queen," [and 953 ex "Arnia."

Imports at this port the past week have included 3,900 bags Rio, per "Sophia;" 1,513 do. St. Domingo, per "Vicksburg;" 250 bags Java, from Rotterdam, per "Mass," and 980 do. sondries.

SUGAR.

Following our last report, the market was without special activity for a day or so, and holders showed some further signs of weakness on Muscovsdo sugars, which continued arriving pretty freely without attracting much attention from refiners. Prices were maintained, however, at the decline established on Friday last, and later on in the week refiners showed rather more disposition to purchase, which gave holders more confidence and leaves the market decidedly firmer at the close. The purchases of reficers have been largely of centrifugal sugars, which are held with a good degree of firmness, but are not quotably advanced from the prices given in our last report. The supply of centrifugals has been augmented by some liberal arrivals during the past week, but the stock is not excessive, the sales having been large enough to more than counterbalance the receipts. Refluers have had a very fair trade in their goods, and the stock of hards has run down pretty well, so that there is more ioquiry for refiniog qualities. Crushed sugar is still scarce, and is firmly belocess. Granulated and powdered contions to be held at 12% @12%c., but with poor success. the latter price only being obtainable on the most popular brands. Standard A's are held at 11%@11%c. for nearly all brands, though the choicest for confectioners' use has sold as high as 12%c. The market closes strong at our quotations. The sales since our last include 2,720 hhds. #### MOLASSES.

The market since our last report has been without important feature beyond the further arrival of foreign new crop molasces and the consequent more liberal offerings of nearly all kinds. Buyers continue to hold off from the foreign grades, and there is nothing to report in refining stock. Holders, however, continue to ask previous intes, and the quotable range of values is pretty firmly maintained, netwithstarding the current duiness. The arrivals during the week base included some Culm procesy grades, which have been out of the market for some weeks past, and we again insert quotations on these qualities. New crop Porto Rico and English Islands is also arriving, and quotable values have been established, although the movements to the trade have not been on a very liberal scale. There has been a very fair call for domestic, but it is impossible to realize the extreme raics previously quoted, and 55c, is about as high as anything will bring. The trade in syrups has been very good, and has run largely in the medium and lower grades of sugar stock. The finer grades have participated in the movement to some extent, and are firmly held at previous rates. Sugar house molasses is scarce, and inless firm at 2%, for bhis, and 18@18%c, for hhds. Sales have been effected since our last of 375 hhds. Porto Rico, including lots within the range, 600 bbls. Domestic at 70@75c. 25 hhds. Demerara 31c.

THE DRY GOODS TRADE.

FRIDAY, P. M., Feb. 21, 1873.

The market has been visited by a large number of buyers during the past week, but the sales have not been so large as was expected, and there is very little improvement to note in the business from first hands. The weather continues too wintry in the Interior for consumers to make any purchases, and as transportation is still liable to delay by the snow, retailers are not disposed to hasten their purchases. The larger houses in the interior are buying freely and there is a very fair movement in staple lines, but the trade in specialties has been rather of a disappointment. The unusually low condition of stocks of nearly all grades of cottons has rendered buyers more anxious to select or contract for their season's supplies of these goods. There is less eagerness to operate in woolens, but the market shows a fair degree of stendiness on the fiver qualities, and holders are not willing to make concessions to press sules. The finances of the trade are in a fairly satisfactory condition and the prospects are favorable for a good spring business, if spring ever opens

Domestic Cotton Goods,-Brown sheetings and shirtings have sold freely during the week, and the distribution continues to embrace nearly all grades, with, perhaps, the most activity in the finer grades. Wide goods are in good request and rule very firm, although the stock is pretty liberal. The range of prices is fully sustained on all grades and is without quotable changeexcept on some of the brands of four yard goods, which are advanced ic. The business in bleached goods has been more active and the market has been buoyant, with an upward tendency. There has been an a vance on several of the leading brands of 4@lc, per yard. This rise has been chiefly on New York Mills, Uticas, Wamsuttas, and similar grades. The movement in colored cottons has been fairly active, and the market continues steady, with no changes in prices worthy of note, except In some of the best makes of Denims, which are a shade higher. There has been an active call for prints, and large transactions are reported in medium colorings and shirting stripes. Chocolate colorings continue very popular, with large offerings of very tasteful patterns by most of the leading corporations.

DOMESTIC WOOLEN GOODS,-There was a decided improvement in the sales during the past week, and the tone of the market is decidedly better at the close. The demand for goods adapted to clothiers' uses has been fairly active, and there is more atrength in the lower grades, though holders are ready sellers at the present rates. The jobbing trade in woolen fabrics is becoming more active, and at the current range of values there is likely to be a liberal distribution of goods to consumers during the spring trade. There has been no movement in heavy goods as yet, and the absence of speculation is regarded as invorable by holders. In dress goods the trade is moderate, and prices are fully maintained.

Foreign Goods.-The imports of dry goods continue large and the offerings are very liberal. There has been some improvement in the distributive demand toward the close of the week, and both British and Continental Inbrics of the more staple qualities are in good request. The French importers are placing fair assortments of silks, cashmeres d'Ecesse and grenadines, while the distribution of the British importers comprises alpacar. Orleans, mohairs, Japanese stripes, fancy dress fabrics, Cham brays and ginghams. White goods are also doing better, and there is now a moderate demand for all descriptions of Victoria lawns, mulls, nainsooks cambrics, checks, jaconets, etc. Piques have not yet become active, but a fair demand is anticipated for these goods. Embroideries, particularly Hamburg edgings and insertions, are in fair request. Lineus are not very active except for housekeeping goods, which are in demand for small selections of Barnsley sheetings, towelings, table cloths, doyleys, etc.

THE CLIQUES AND THE LOAN MARKET.

Opinions are somewhat divided as to whether the monetary stringency which has been renewed this week is artificial, and the question is discussed with some warmth on both sides. The better view seems to be that the monetary situation is so sensitive as to offer to a clique of wealthy speculators the opportunity so to manipulate and adroitly use their money as to control the loan market without difficulty, and that they avail themselves of these facilities whenever it answers their purpose to do so, either with a view to operating in stocks or in gold; in both of which they are said to be deeply engaged.

On this theory the ease is explained which was suddenly developed yesterday. These tight-money men, it is argued, have contrived during the turmoil of the previous days to cover their shorts, and have no further occasion to keep money tight; they therefore abstained from interfering with he money market and left it to its own free movements.

the result of which was a degree of ease that would prevail continually if these men could be persuaded to desist from their manipulations and to let the money market alone.

Another statement is that these speculators are helping forward, as well as they can, the efforts now making at Washington to induce the Treasury to issue the 41 millions of greenbacks of which so much has been said. By doing their utmost to cause stringency and disturbance in the loan market, these cliques hope to get up a cry for relief and for an unlawful issue of currency, so as to convince the Secretary of the Treasury that such an issue is needful to stop the stringency. These cliques are reported to be large holders of stocks which, in the violent excitement of the market caused by currency inflation, they could succeed in disposing of at high prices.

How much of truth there may be in these various conjectures we need not inquire. There is considerable plausibility in some of them, and they serve to illustrate, at any rate, the very uncertain condition of the money market, and the utter impossibility of foreseeing its probable movements in face of so many contingencies.

Much of our hope for easy money this summer depends on the continuance of low rates of interest in the European load markets; for we shall be able to avail ourselves of large amounts of foreign capital here if ease should con. tinue to prevail abroad. In London the recent change in the Bank of England rate seemed to take the leading financial authorities by surprise, and they do not appear to expect its continuance. Still their opinions may be wrong, and for the present there is so large an amount of idle capital accumulated there that the rates in open market are below the bank minimum. It also appears as if some change had taken place in the programme of the German Government relative to the new coinage, as their demands for gold so far this year have depleted the market much less than was expected; and have barely kept pace with the bullion receipts from this country and from Australia. If this partial arrest of the absorption of gold for the German coinage should continue, the heavy payments on account of the fourth milliard of the French indemnity will be likely to add another element of ease to the European loan markets, which ought to tell favorably upon our financial movements here. The prospect before us is such, however, as to suggest to all prudent men the most circumspect caution.

HOW REPEAL OF THE USURY LAWS WOULD AID BORROWERS.

It is well known that there is great opposition at Albany to the repeal of the Usury Law, and that this opposition derives its chief support from the country members. These men keenly feel the oppressive and enormous loss which afflicts borrowers in consequence of the high rates of inter est which of late years have prevailed throughout a considerable part of the year. What they fail to see is that the usury laws themselves cause this distress, and that if the legislature would repeal these laws one chief cause of the wild fluctuations of the money market would be taken away.

In March, 1867, the State of Massachusetts, with many misgivings, ventured to repeal her usury laws, which were much less severe and less mischievous than those of this State. It has occurred to us, therefore, that some of our people might like to know from well-informed quarters what are the real effects of the repeal of such laws in an active, manufacturing and commercial State. Accordingly we have obtained authentic testimony on the subject from various business men, among others from Mr. J. S. Ropes, the President of the Boston Board of Trade. The questions we put to this gentleman, with his answers, are as follows:

1. Was your law of March 6, 1867, as popular among borrowers as among lenders?

Reply.—Probably it was not popular with borrowers on mortgage, who obtained money at 6 per cent, and with many ignorant persons who supposed it possible to make money cheap by legislation; but I think the great body of intelligent merchants, and those borrowers especially who were shut out from six per cent loans, heartily approved of it.

2. Has that law worked any hardship or oppression to the horrowing class?

Reply.—I am not aware that it has done so. On the contrary I think it has essentially benefitted a large class of borrowers, by enabling them to compete with the favored class who formerly monopolized the six per cent loans at the banks and elsewhere as well as by increasing the amount of available capital in the market.

3. Did the rates of interest show any general disposition to rise immediately after the passage of the law?

Reply.—I do not think they did, and for a long time after the passage of the law. I think its effect was hardly to be noticed. But its ultimate effect has been to substitute seven per cent for six in mortgages and bank loans.

4. If so, have the free movements of supply and demand counteracted that temporary rise and developed a subsequent decline?

Reply.—With the exception of the above-named advance from six to seven per cent, which I think was gradual, there has been, in my opinion, neither advance nor reaction, but a constant tendency in the direction of ease and steadiness.

5. Are your present rates, on the average, higher or lower than before the anti-restriction legislation of 1867?

Reply.—It is my impression that rates now vary less than formerly; that changes are more gradual and less extreme in their character, and that rates are on the average rather lower than higher, allowing, however, for exceptional circumstances.

6. Is there as much tendency to spasmodic changes in the rate of interest as formerly?

Reply.—I think spasmodic changes in the rate of interest have been absolutely unknown since the passage of the law.

7. What has been the general operation of the new law as affecting the facilities of mercantile business, and the rates of discount during the years 1868-1873?

Reply.—The effect of the law appears to me to have been in every way satisfactory, so much so that the advocates of an irredeemable paper currency have thought it necessary to ascribe the improvement to that particular cause. I think the full benefit of the abolition of usury laws will not appear until our currency is restored to a sound basis. But even with our present experience I believe it would be utterly impossible ever to restore usury laws in Massachusetts. The amount of loanable capital has very greatly increased, and borrowers in consequence are supplied with far more ease than formerly, and on the whole at lower rates.

J. S. Ropes,

President of the Boston Board of Trade.

We shall, if needful, give further extracts from the evidence we have collected. Substantially, however, all parties are at one in regard to several important points. First, they agree that borrowers are not injured by the repeal of the usury laws. This is an important matter for the purpose we have in view. The opposing members at Albany are anxious to mitigate the distress which high rates of interest inflict on commerce and trude. Anxious as they are to relieve this suffering and apply to the growing evil a fit remedy, they cannot disabuse their minds of venerable and oft-refuted errors which have long lost their power in almost every commercial country but our own. They assume that it is possible to protect borrowers by denouncing severe penalties against usury. It is now 36 years since this fallacy got itself enacted in the present usury law of this State. In the year 1837, the lending of money at a higher rate than 7 per cent. was made a misdemeanor punishable by a fine of 1,000 dollars and by imprisonment for six months. Previously the usurious loaning of money was punished severely enough, but the penalty was found of no effect. Usury then involved the loss of the principal and interest, and this forfeiture was also continued in the new law, in addition to the new sanctions of fine and imprisonment.

Surely, if any legislation could by possibility have repressed usury it would have been done long ago. Yet what are the facts. Year by year the mischief has grown worse. For five or six months past call loans have been made in Wall street at rates far above the legal maximum. Such loans are made notoriously to the extent of millions of dollars a day, and the usury laws give practically no protection to the borrower whatever. Turning to the interior of the State we find that on bond and mortgage a farmer finds it extremely difficult to borrow at any price, and those who do succeed have to submit to a heavy douceur to the go-between, whom the law, with its stringent penalties, renders an indispensable agent for the raising of loans. It is also worthy of note that the penal sanctions of the law have never been invoked but once, when District-Attorney Garvin, a few years ago, had a number of our leading bankers fined to the extent, if we rightly remember, of $250 each. Except in this case the experiment was never tried before or since, of inflicting a fine; and the penalty of imprisonment has always been virtually a dead letter. Our experience in the working of usury laws is, in fact, the same as that of all the rest of the world. England has long ago swept the last vestiges of usury laws from her statute book, because she found that practically they could not be enforced, and if they could they would not protect borrowers from any exactions of the lenders of money. The universal experience of all commercial nations has shown that it is not the leaders but the borrowers who are the chief sufferers from usury legislation, and that the best relief legislation can give in regard to the usury laws is to abolish them altogether.

The evidence we have collected also shows that the money market works in Massachusetts with fewer spasms and jerks than before the reform in the law. It also appears that there is more money to lend. Mr. Ropes refers to this point at the closs of his paper. To illustrate it we have compiled from the official reports of the Comptroller of the Currency the following table, showing the gradual increase of the deposits and loans of the Boston banks, and of the country banks of Massachusetts from the date of the usury repeal till the present time. These figures offer a convincing illustration of the working of free trade in money:

For many years past these men have contended that it would be unsafe to leave lenders at liberty to charge what rates they please, that they would abuse their liberty, that their rapacity would know no bounds, that the rates of interest would go up to exorbitant limits, and borrowers would be more oppressed than ever. The men who argue thus argue against the facts. Meanwhile capital which ought to be lending here has been driven off in vast amounts to other states, where it can be lent at its real value on interest without fear of forfeiture, confiscation, or other barbarous penalties for usury.

DISCREPANCY BETWEEN THE GROWTHOR OUR POPULATION AND WEALTH. " 61.

One of the most conspicuous tendencies of modern civilization all over the world is the concentration of a greater percentage of the population in large cities; and the rapidity of this movement, as indicated by successive census reports. is generally presumed to give a fair index to the compara. tive progress of various nationalities in material wealth and productive power. During the past three or four years Mr. Wm. R. Martin, an eminent member of the New York bar, has rendered a service to economic science by a number of papera of a practical, and suggestive character, illustrating the working of these tendencies in regard to the growth of the city of New York. The last of his essays has just been published, and gives an elaborate series of tables showing how the increase of New York in population and wealth has been checked by extravagant expenditure, by bad government, by heavy taxation, and by insufficient means of quick travel between distant parts of the city. The results of these retarding influences are seen in the slow growth of our metropolitan population since 1860, which has disappointed many persons who had expected to find it as rapid as the increase of the real and personal estate. In 1860 the census gave to New York 813,669 inhabitants, and in 1870, 942,292; so that the population increased 128,623, or less than 15 per cent. Estimating the subsequent increase at this ratio, we shall have in 1873 980,880, and shall have gained 167,211, or 21 per cent. on the population of 1860. The real estate of the city, on the other hand, increased its tax valuation from $397,883,869 in 1860, to $742,202,525 in 1870, and $797,148,665 in 1872. In other words, while the population increased but 21 per cent, during 12 years, the value of real estate had more than doubled; and while the city of New York had added from 1860 to 1870 but 167,211 persons to its permanent population, it had added to its solid wealth, in real property, the vast sum of $399,264,796. Mr. Martin argues the question how this vast increase has been distributed over the various parts of the city. Into the details of this dis cussion our limits forbid us to enter now, but there are two points that are well worthy of note: first, that in the lower wards of the city, which constitute the business portion of its area, the increase in valuation is very steady and well distributed, notwithstanding the great disturbance of values from the restless moving of business from its old moorings in accordance with the general progress of the population northwards. Secondly, this rule of equable distribution does not apply to the increasing values of the newer half of the city, which occupies the northern portion of Manhattan Island. To compare the growth of the new and the old parts of the city, Mr. Martin draws his dividing line at Fortieth street, which gives two districts of about equal areas. Of these the lower or southern section is built up and thickly settled, while the other is four fifths of it still vacant. The growth of these two sections, in regard to their real estate valuation is suggestive, and is shown in the following table, which we condense from Mr. Martin's more voluminous

These figures are well worthy of attentive examination. Among other things they show that the new part of the city, although the population has overflowed and been attracted to the suburbs, has still added to its real estate values in 12 years no less than 163 millions of dollars, or at the average of 13½ millious a year. Since 1865 the total valuation of the real estate has risen from $427,360,884 in the whole city, to $797,148,665, showing a growth of 85 per cent, or 370 millions of dollars for the eight years. This is independent of the personal estate which increased its valuation 70 per cent in the same period, or from $181,-428,471 in 1865 to $306,949,492 in 1872. In 1865 it is observed that the personal estate was 30 per cent of the whole, and in 1872 28 per cent of the whole. To what extent the real estate valuations may be susceptible to speculative influences in the past or future, is a problem too remote from our present purpose, which is simply to give a general view of the growth and distribution of the wealth of this metropolis, with a view to elucidate the position that the property, both real and personal, assessed for taxation in this city, is rapidly growing, although our population is growing more slowly.

The next question is whither the population are dispersed who are employed here and might be expected to prefer a residence in the city. Mr. Martin answers that they are driven to the suburbs by thousands and tens of thousands every year. This he proves by giving us the population statistics of the suburban counties of this State and of New Jersey. In the state of New York he gives eight counties whose population has risen from 390,902 in 1860 to 498,718 in 1872, showing an increase of 26 per cent., or 107,816 persons. He then takes us across the Hudson and shows that the seven near-by counties of New Jersey have increased still more, their population baving risen from 309,494 in 1860, to 514,622 in 1872, and showing an increase of 205,128, or over 65 per cent. In these seven counties of New Jersey the taxable property at the valuation assessed for purposes of taxation, has rapidly increased. From 1865 to 1872 it has doubled, the increase being $176,593,436. This sum indicates, of course, a much higher value at market prices or at the estimate put on the property in the hands of its owners. In the eight suburban counties of the state the real estate has risen from $119,067,238 in 1865 $137,-395,928 in 1872, while the personal estate has fallen from $36,295,969 to $30,226,436, in consequence of the laxity of the assessors who allow larger amounts of personal estate than formerly to escape assessment in consequence of the unpopularity of the tax on personal estate.

The practical inference from all these figures is obvious. If the abuses of the ring government, and other causes, have during the past few years driven our population away from this city to the suburban counties of New Jersey and of our own State, we must without delay begin a series of reforms The specific character of the civic reforms which Mr. Martin advocates we may perhaps discuss hereafter. Meanwhile we must admit that he has done good service in setting in so clear a light some of the more prominent causes of the slow growth of our city population in comparison with its wealth and commerce.

ADMINISTRATION REFORM AND THE REFUNDING OF THE COTTON TAX.

The scanty subscriptions to the Syndicate loan abroad and the consequent call of 50 millions of five twenties instead of 200 millions, as was expected, have revived the discussion that has been fitfully going on for some time past in certain newspapers abroad and at home, relative to the extravagance of our civil expenditure and its steady increase from year to year, so as to neutralize or absorb any savings from the economies in the Departments of the Army and Navy. With this prodigality the officious assailants of Mr. Boutwell have for lack of better weapons ventured to charge him, though every well-informed person knows that his chief hold on the confidence of the country is his bold refusal and dogged opposition to every job that has been put forward for plundering the National Treasury. Our people have always been in favor of sound economy; but the time for agitating its practice is when the appropriation bills are before Congress; for under our theory of government it is Congress and not the Administration that chiefly holds the purse-strings of the nation. It might be expected therefore that the economists who have attacked Mr. Bout, urged, were unconstitutional and void. They were also well because of the swelling volume of the civil appropriations year by year would make a prompt appeal to Congress at the proper moment against the excessive pressure of these heavy burdens. Congress is responsible to the country, and if any popular remonstrance is to be valid we look to Congress to make it so. The reports from Washington give the following aggregates of the twelve appropriation bills for the current year: Indian, $5,379,365; Pension, 30,000,000; Legislative, Executive and Judicial, $17,041,353; Consular and Diplomatic, $1,310,629; Navy, $18,769,993; Fortifications, $1,999,000; Post Office, $32,-503,767; Military Academy, $351,018; Army, $31,961,-954; sundry civil expenses, $27,958,829; River and Harbor, $5,507,400, Deficiency, $8,222,328—making a total of $181,006,136. That these estimates are too large Congress does not seem to believe; for the amounts in some of the bills have been increased. The aggregate of appropriations by the time all the bills shall have been passed will probably be $190,000,000. We repeat that if these appropriations involve any prodigal waste of the public money, this is the time to show the extravagance and to tear the veil from the corrupt devices which squander the people's money. Instead of grumbling and croaking all the rest of the year, and finding fault with the officers whose duty it is to disburse the money voted by law, our fiscal reformers should go to the fountain head and inform Con gress, that makes the law.

In every well conducted project for this purpose these gentlemen may rely on the aid of the press, and on the sympathy of the people. There are few problems in the field of economic labor which offer richer incentives or more promise to disinterested publicists.

But there are other kinds of proposed Government ex penditure which will claim the attention of enlightened advocates of practical reform, and will need in Congress and elsewhere more careful watching than even the ordinary expenditure of our civil administration. Among these are a multitude of hungry schemes, some of which, after a score of defeats are still as lively as ever, and are pushing their claims on the National Treasury, without attracting so much notice as might be wished from the newspapers. One of the more prominent of these is the oft-defeated claim for the refunding of the cotton tax, against which Mr. Kerr, of Indiana, made an admirable speech a few days ago in Congress. Like other fair-minded statesmen both in and out of Congress, Mr. Kerr was induced at first to favor such claims, partly by sympathy, and partly by the conviction that the cotton tax inflicted on one of our most important productive interests a practical wrong. Many persons who were thus disposed at the outset to regard with favor the project for repaying the amount which this tax had taken from the pockets of the people have reached on reflection an opposite con clusion. If such a repayment were practicable-if we could find out how far the tax had been recouped by advanced prices-if there were any reasonable prospect that the sum repaid would undo the injury inflicted, that the money would find its way into the pockets of the right men, and to the precise amount which they had suffered—then in that state of the facts, Mr. Kerr and others with him might not have been led to a policy practically fatal to these claims. That this policy has long ago prevailed generally among our people, is due not to prejudice but to enlightened conviction and to the force of evidence. Let us look for a moment at the case as presented by the claimants. Their bills propose to refund all the taxes collected on raw cotton, under the acts of July 1, 1862; June 20, 1864; July 13, 1866; Sept. 1, 1867, and Feb. 3, 1868. These laws, it is unjust, false in principle, and oppressive in operation. Hence the whole of the money collected under them, on this most important raw material produced in the South should be refunded to the persons who paid it, or to their representatives. With a view to success in passing this unprecedented measure it is affirmed that its promoters at Washington have under control very influential aids to legislation, and have bought up no less than six millions of these cotton claims. There are also stories afloat that some of these claims have been distributed "where they would do most good." How correct Madame Rumor may be in this last insinuation we do not know. What is certain Is that the claims have passed to a large extent out of the hands of the original parties, and that a ring of speculators and lobbyists are on the track of them. Further than this we have no wish as yet to penetrate the mystery which at present hides the agitators of these extinct cotton claims from obliquy and from public view.

Turning from these men to the claims they urge, we find that the total amount involved is much greater than has been supposed. The tax was in operation six years. It was enacted July 1, 1862, when the tax on raw cotton was fixed at half a cent per pound, and remained at that rate until June 20, 1864, when it was increased to two cents a pound. On the 13th of July, 1866, it was raised to three cents a pound, and so remained until September 1, 1867, when it was fixed at two and a half cents per pound. On the 3d of February, 1868, the tax was altogether abolished. The aggregate of the cotton tax collected while the laws were in force, from 1863 to 1868, inclusive, is thus reported:

| TOTAL REVENUE FROM THE COTTON TAX, 1863 TO |            |

During the years 1866 and 1867 there was collected by Treasury special agents an aggregate tax of $2,018,319 in the late insurrectionary States. A large part of this sum was derived from the tax upon cotton; so that the claims now proposed to be refunded amount to 68 millions of dollars, even if we omit, as the House bill, No. 3,564 proposes, the 1½ millions collected in 1863 and 1864. The simple exposure of the prodigious magnitude of the claim is of course sufficient to defeat it. This is almost equally true of many similar schemes for depleting the Treasury. Their fate is swift and sure when once their real purpose and extent are disclosed to the people. The only hope of their adroit managers is to avoid publicity, and to insinnate their bills into the legislative hopper at Washington in the excitement and rush of business which so disgrace fully prevail at the close of each Congressional session. Some better means must be devised for securing delibera. tion and publicity of every appropriation bill which is allowed to pass through Congress. It would also be well to prohibit any member of either House from receiving any fee, or from acting as attorney, for any such schemes or for their promoters. An honest member of Congress, as Gen. Butler said on Tuesday, may be worth seven thousand a year; but we must add that if he take fees from suitors to Congress he is worth less than nothing. Here is a fine field for fiscal reform. We might point to work which in other directions is soliciting the skill of those men among us who aspire to be administrative reformers. The suggestions we have indicated, however, are enough for the present.

EUROPEAN COTTON CONSUMPTION AGAIN.

We have received the past week the following letter from Mesars. Smith, Edwards & Co., of Liverpool: LIVERPOOL, February 6, 1873.

To the Editor of the Commercial and Financial Chronicle, N.Y.: SIR—We notice in your cotton report of January 24, some criticisms en our last annual circular, which proceeds alon a misapprehension. You say that we were in error in putting the consumption of American cetton in Great Britain for 1871 at 31,800 bales per week, whereas spinners held a surplus stock of 150,000 bales, which reduced their actual consumption to about 32,000 bales per week. We beg to state that the figures of consumption we gave were those adopted by the Brokers' Committee here, after deducting 80,000 bales for excess of stock held by the trade on December 31. The amount of American cotton taken by the trade that year was 1,888,000 bales, or 36,300 bales per week. Further, the estimate of 150,000 bales surplus stock ascribed by you to Ott-Trumpler was made on October 1 not December 31.

You also object to our figures of the continental consumption of American cotton in 187t and 1872—viz., 850,000 bales average. We would say that the 1,090,000 Bales. 635,000 Bales. Average supply to the Continent, 1871 and 1872, 862,000 Bales.

As stocks of American cotton in spinners' hands were very small at the end of last year, we may fairly take this as representing the consumption in place of 800,000 bales per annum, as you state.

There are various other ways of arriving at the same result, and we merely adduce this as the simplest.

We have noticed former criticisms on our circular also containing incorrect statements which we did not reply to at the time, but we thought it well to refer to this as the matter lies in a nutshell.

We are, Sir, yours faithfully,

SMITH, EDWARDS & Co.

As this matter lies in a nutshell, let us break the outer covering, examine the kernel, and discover if possible where lies the misapprehension.

1. The annual cotton statement for Great Britain, Dec. 31, 1871, stated the consumption in the United Kingdom for the year to be 3,114,780 bales. In arriving at this result the Brokers' Committee estimated an increase of 100,000 bales in the spinners' surplus during the year, making that surplus 200,000 bales, and they assigned all the rest of the cotton supply, not exported nor in the stock in ports, to consumption.

In October, 1871, M. Ott-Trumpler, who is without a peer as a cotton statistician, and in accurate knowledge and judgment of what the world is getting and using of raw cotton, estimated the increuse of spinners' surplus in Great Britain in 1871 at 250,000 bales (instead of 100,000 bales, as estimated by the Brokers' Committee), and 500,000 bales for all Europe. We have before us a paper headed "Reflections on Ott-Trumpler's Statement of Consumption in Europe," written immediately after the appearance of M. Ott-Trumpler's circular letter, and said to be from the pen of one of the most distinguished writers among the cotton brokers of Liverpool. In it he says that Ott-Trumpler's statement made the whole European consumption 95,000 bales per week, and adds, "We think he overestimated the surplus stock, and we would put it at 300,000 bales, making the consumption 99,000 bales, or call it 100,000 bales per week." Here is a key to the subsequent decision of the Brokers' Committee, as to the relative con. sumption and surplus, though the committee varied it more widely at the end of the year.

These, then, were the two positions taken at that time—the one by the Liverpool Brekers' committee, making the increase of spinners' stock in Great Britain 100,000 bales, and the other by Ott-Trumpler, claiming 250,000 bales as their increased surplus. But it soon became evident that the Brokers' Committee were in the wrong. By their theory, granting their figures of consumption and surplus to be correct, and the current consumption in the first six months of 1872, even reduced as they were, also to be correct, the atock of American cotton in England should have been exhausted or nearly so before October. But it was not. On the contrary, after July there was remarkable "abstention from market" by spinners. There was American cotton enough, supplemented by the long staples, and to spare. Speculation was disappointed of its fruits, and everybody saw that a great statistical mistake had been made in the figures of the Brokers' Committee for 1871. Examination revealed the fact, which was then admitted by all prominent writers that Ott-Trumpler was right after all, and that the spinners' surplus Dec. 31, 1871, should have been at least 150,000 bales larger, and the consumption of 1871 correspondingly revised. As there was no inducement to lay by a surplus of any other than American cotton in 1871, it was naturally concluded that this extra 150,000 bales in the surplus was chiefly, if not all of American cotton. If so, then the coneumption of American cotton in 1871 was by that quantity, or nearly that quartity, less than was set down by the Broker's Committee. This reduction would be nearly 3,000 bales per week; hence our reduction of the weekly rate of consumption of American cotton in 1871 from 34,800 bsles, as stated in the annual cotton circular of Messrs. Smith, Edwards & Co. for 1st January, 1873, to the actual rate, 32,000 bales.

We were quite well aware that the figures used by Messrs. Smith, Edwards & Co. were those adopted by the Brokers' Association through its committee; and we notice that they repeat and perpetuate the error in the succeeding year, without a word of explanation. There is aomething almost sublime in the steady adherance by our friends over the water to whatever has once been adopted by the rightful authority, and the implicit faith given to it after all the world, themselves included, have discovered that it was "adopted" under a misapprehension. It is the spirit of conservatism.

But our correspondents say that "the estimate of 150,-000 bales surplus stock ascribed by you (us) to Ott-Trum. pler was made on 1st October, not 31st December." True; and yet we do not see how that affects the question, as it was evident that the surplus we referred to was the excess of Ott-Trumpler's statement over the increase (100,000 bales) allowed by the Liverpool Brokers at that time Besides, turning to the annual report of the Liverpool Brokers' Association for 1871, we find that between October 1 and December 31 the trade took from Liverpool alone (disregarding what they took at London) 861,670 bales, an average of 66,280 bales per week for the thirteen weeks, and that the average consumption of the year, even as excessively stated, was only 59,900 bales per weekreally about 57,000 bsles. Granting that the increased activity in the last three months of that year raised it to 60,000 bales per week, or 780,000 bales in the thirteen weeks, it remains clear that spinners added to their surplus over 80,000 bales from Liverpool alone after October 1.

2. One other point is presented by Messrs. Smith, Edwards & Co.—the consumption of American cotton on the Continent in 1871 and 1872. In the absence of clear and definite data from which a certainty as to the maximum of consumption can be reached, like those we have from England, we preter accepting the conclusions of M. Ott-Trumpler before cited, supported as they are by the continental statistics of Messrs. Stolterfoht, Sons & Co., of Liverpool, so far as these latter can be applied.

Yet, for the satisfaction of our correspondents, we present the following statement as approximating the actual as nearly as the data at hand will permit, starting from Jan. 1, 1871, with

| Stock in the Continental ports—American cotton                 | 1,101,000 |
|----------------------------------------------------------------|-----------|

| Stock in the ports at the end of 1872 94,000                   |           |
| Proportion of American cotton in the spinners' surplus Dec.    |           |

| erlcan112,000                                                  | 306,000   |

an average of 834,500 per year.

The "imports" above employed are taken from a leading Liverpool authority, who states them in larger quantity than any other of the statisticians. Reduced to conformity with the above letter, the two years consumption of Ameri. can cotton would fall below 1,600,000 bales.

We are aware that at Liverpool it is the habit to disregard exceptional conditions, by which one year differs from another statistically. When the object is to ascertain something so important as the actual consumption, the habit of following an unvarying routine sometimes misleads. During the Franco-German war many cotton mills were run out of cotton and were stopped. The "deliveries" of cotton were nevertheless taken as measure of consumption in 1870; whereas the working stock thus run out should have been counted in the actual consumption. So, when in 1871 those mills and some new ones started up they required filling up. The cotton for it went out of market and into use, but does not in any proper sense count on the "consumption" which expresses the quantity of raw cotton turned out in cloths or yarns for the market. The extent of this varying element is, of necessity, estimated, and all mere estimates are fairly subjects of criticism and objection.

[From our own correspondent.]

LONDON, Saturday, February 15, 1873.

The money market has continued very firm, and in the open market no accommodation has been obtainable under the bank rate of 31 per cent. As the bank holds, and will continue to hold, so large an amount of the public money, it is evident that the chief discount business will be at that establishment, and the return published this week shows the applications for discount have been on a very extensive scale. The mercantile community were apprehensive of an advance in the bank rate on Thursday, and this accounts for the large increase of £3,412,996 in "otle securities," and of £2,122,924 in "other deposits." The demand has evidently been therefore of a precautionary character. Although the proportion of reserve to liabilities has declined to 45% per cent, the Directors of the Bank have not altered their minimum, and there is no reason why they should have done so The reserve is ample, the stock of bullion is very large, while trade, owing to the dearness of coal, seems likely to be on a much less extensive scale. The daily transactions, as shown by the Clearing House returns, are nevertheless large, the total clearings for the week ending Wednesday evening being £103,-686,000, or nearly £10,000,000 more than in the corresponding week of last year. The following are the prices of money:

The rates of interest allowed by the joint stock banks and discount houses for deposits are as follows:

In the bullion market the chief feature has been a withdrawal from the Bank of £385,000 in bar gold for Germany, and of £200,000 in sovereigns for Japan. Silver is in short supply and is firmer in price, and old Mexican dollars are scarce and dear. The following prices of bullion are from the circular of Messrs. Pixley, Abell, Langley & Blake:

In the Stock Exchange there has been a dull tone. British railway shares have declined heavily, it helng apprehended that the high price of coal will materially diminish the net profits, and consequently the dividends. Some, however, are of opinion that the companies will be compelled to meet the difficulty by raising their fares, and it is certainly difficult to see how such a course can be avoided. House coals of the best quality are now delivered at our houses only for the enormous price of 52s. per ton. In former winters, and even in severe ones, the price has not been higher than 26s. or 28s., so that the price is doubled. Amongst foreign stocks the chief movement has been in Spanish stock, which on the announcement that the King of Spain had abdicated, de clined to 241, from which point there has been a recovery to 258@ 251. The United States Funded lean has not attracted much attention, chiefly for the reason that, like in consols, there are not sufficient fluctuations in it to admit of Stock Exchange speculation, The operations in it are naturally for investments of a permanent character. The price is about par. The following were the closing prices this afternoon of consols and the leading American securitie

^{*}Price, Feb. 6.

The dearness of coal is obviously calculated to injure our commercial position, and to diminish our trade. The cause of it is not that our coal fields are exhausted; but that the output is greatly diminished by the idleness of the men. The men are such enemies to themselves, or perhaps the Union is such an enemy to them, that the would-be industrious miner is prevented by the laws he is compelled to be bound to, for the sake of peace, from reaping the reward of his industry. The men now earn very much the same as they did before, work shorter time, pro duce less, and spend many hours in idleness and in drinking The man, therefore, of industrious habits is unable to work the full week to earn as much as he can, and make a provision for the future, which a miner is quite capable of doing. He makes, therefore, no moral advance, and the result is that not only does he not improve, but that money and drink make him worse. Mr. Disraeli, on the first night of Parliament, in discussing the payment due under the Geneva arbitration, remarked on the elasticity of the revenue, and repeated an observation made to him in private that we had drank ourselves out of the American difficulty. Such is indeed the case, the increase in the revenue receipts being entirely due to an additional amount of £2,000,000 received from the excise duties. The miner has evidently contributed his share to the award.

Not only have the furnaces been blown out in South Wales in which district there is, however, a desire on the part of the men to return to work, but it has been announced within the last few hours that as many as three hundred furnaces will share immediately the same fate in the north of England. The cause of this is the high price of coal. There is no doubt that our industries are being seriously interfered with, and by many the future is viewed with grave anxiety. There is, indeed, too much reason to fear that 1873 will be a year of severe trial to many of us, and especially to those branches of trade in which steam power on an extensive scale is indispensable.

The public sales of Colonial wool were commenced on Thursday. The quantities arrived amount to 11,756 bales from New South Wales and Queensland; 65,111. Victoria; 230, Tasmania; 30,528, South Australia; 1,187, Western Australia; 2,679, New Zealand; and 21,922 bales from the Cape, making a total of 133,413 bales. The sales have opened at lower prices, Australian woo being 1d to 1½d per pound cheaper than in November last. Very little is doing for the Continent, the home trade taking by far the larger proportion.

We have had a week of dry and rather cold weather, but with out frost of any severity. The land is daily improving, and agricultural work is making rapid progress. It seems to be probable that a large area of land will be planted with barley this season, the wetness of the autumn having prevented the usual quantity of wheat being sown. There is nothing fresh to report in the wheat trade. Good and fine qualities command a steady sale for immediate consumption, and full prices are obtained. The continental markets are also without important change, the price of the best wheat being well supported.

The following statement shows the imports and exports of cereal produce into and from the United Kingdom since harvest, viz., from September 1 to the close of last week, compared with the corresponding periods in the three previous years:

The Railway News is informed that one cause of the delay in carrying out the scheme of amalgamation of the Atlantic cables is the difficulty of dealing with the owners of the New York and Newfoundland lines. That company, helding the key of the position, and possessing the only means by which the messages of the Anglo-American and French cables can be forwarded to and from the United States and Canada, has put forward claims to be regarded, not merely upon a footing of equality with the cable companies in any arrangement of this kind, but upon still more favorable terms. They allege that the land lines of the company are now in such a thoroughly sound condition that any accidents or casualties that may occur upon them may be readily and economically remedied, and that their contracts and agreements with the Western Union and other American lines are points of so much value that they are fairly justified in insisting in being taken into the federation upon better terms than the other two companies. Another important argument which is put forward is that the land grants in Newfoundland held by the company, and comprising several millions of excellent and improving lands, should be taken into account.

BANKING AND FINANCIAL.

BANKING OFFICE OF FISK & HATCH,

5 NASSAU STREET.

NEW YORK, Feb. 21, 1873.

The CHESAPEAKE and OHIO, the CENTRAL PACIFIC and WESTERN PACIFIC BONDS, all of which have been negotiated by us, we believe to be among the best and most desirable Invest ment Securities in the market, which in time must become very scarce; especially as the Government will probablypay off, in gold, $300,000,000 more Five-Twenties during the year, and a large amount of money thus released from investment must find its way into this class of securities.

The CHESAPEAKE AND OHIO SIX PER CENT. GOLD BONDS, the total amount of which is only $15,000,000, are secured upon a property worth $35,000,000 to $40,000,000, and are fully equal in intrinsic value to the CENTRAL PACIFIC BONDS. They are issued in denominations of $100, $500 and $1,000, coupon or registered, and at their present market price, 871 and accrued interest, are very desirable.

The CENTRAL PACIFIC SIX PER CENT, GOLD BONDS are too well known to require description or commendation Their total amount is $25,885,000; they have for a long time ranged in market price near or above par. Their market price to-day is 104@1044.

The WESTERN PACIFIC SIX PER CENT. GOLD BONDS amount to $2,735,000. This road is now consolidated with the CENTRAL PACIFIC, and the payment of its bonds, principal and interest, is assumed by the latter. As they have recently been introduced on the Stock Exchange, we expect to see them rapidly rise to the price of CENTRAL PACIFICS, being substantially the same in character and value. Coupon Bonds, $1,000 each. Their market price to-day is 94\(\frac{1}{4}\)@95.

We buy and sell, as usual, Government Bonds, receive deposits. on which we allow interest, make collections, and conduct a general banking business in all its branches.

The Money Market.—The market has shown no abatement of the stringency noticed last week, and rates in exceptional there is much confidence in some quarters that it will be passed cases have reached the extraordinary figure of 1 per cent a day cases have reached the extraordinary figure of $\frac{1}{2}$ per cent a day in addition to 7 per cent interest, this being at the rate of a bout 98 per cent per annum. The bulk of business during the week has been done within the range of 7 per cent gold to 1-32, or 1-16 per day and interest, while government bond dealers have been accommodated in some cases at 7 per cent currency. We noticed last week the principal causes of the present monetary string ency, and in addition to these they referred to it move added the probaand in addition to those then referred to is now added the probability that the National Banks will be called upon by the Comptroller for a statement of their condition, and the necessity on their part to prepare for it by contracting their loans. To-day call loans were 7 per cent to government dealers, and 1-32 @ 1-16 per day to stock brokers in the morning, and 7@7 gold in the alternoon. This was better than the previous day, and there was a more hopeful feeling on the street with a prevailing impression that the worst of the pressure had passed by.

Commercial paper is not quoted much higher than last week, but business is almost entirely checked by the indisposition to Cable advices from London report an easy market; the ban's loses £54,000 in bullion and the discount rate remains unchanged loses £54,000 in bullion and the discount rate remains unanaged at 3½. United States Bonds .- Government bonds have not been particularly active, but prices, notwithstanding the extreme money pressure, are well maintained, and close at nearly the same figures as last week. It is expected that the Secretary of the Treasury will call in $50,000,000 of 5.20s next week, instead of the $100,000,000 for which he was about to issue a call two weeks ago. At the Treasury purchase of bonds on Wednesday the offerings were $2,482,250, of which $1,000,000 were accepted, and all paid for in legal tenders.

Closing prices daily, and the range since Jan. 1, have been:

State and Railroad Bonds .- The dealings in Southern State bonds have been chiefly confined to Tennessees, with a few transactions in South Carolinas, and in North Carolina special tax bonds. A funding bill is before the Tennessee Legislature, and this session. The Georgia Legislature has adjourned without acting on the financial questions. The Alabama Legislature has authorized $1,500,000 of new bonds. The business in railroad bonds has been checked to some extent by the disturbances in money, but the investment demand continues without much interruption. The Union Pacific bonds have been lower, and the first mortgages and land grants are attracting some attention at the present figures. In other good 7 per cent., or 6 per cent. gold bonds, secured by first mortgages, and purchasable from 88 to par, there is a well distributed business.

Italiroad and Miscellaneous Stocks.—The week has been one of great excitement in stocks, and the movement on Wednesday afternoon and Thursday morning in certain stocks was in the nature of a panic. Under the influence of the great stringency in money, stocks were weak and Irregular on the early days of the week, and on Wednesday afternoon there was a decided break, as above stated. The stocks which felt the panic most were Panama, Pacific Mail, Western Union Telegraph, Lake Shore, and Erie. The dealings in the other stocks were large, but prices were steadier. Pacific Mail and its associate, Panama, were by far the most prominent stocks in the decline, and it was believed for a time that the President, Mr. Stockwell, who is the leading operator in Pacific Mail, had failed. It was publicly announced, however, on Thursday that he would meet all his engagements, and this assisted materially in turning the tide of depression. The market has since been stronger, although Pacific Mail was an exception to day and sold down to 55½, recovering to 58 at the close, the general list also closing stronger and more active.

an exception to day and sold down to 55½, recovering to 58 at the close, the general list also closing stronger and more active.

It does not appear that the leading operators in stocks are in favor of an upward movement, and the impression prevails that most of them think prices are not now materially below their actual value.

The following were the highest and lowest prices of the active list of railroad and miscellaneous atouks on each day of the last week:

The Gold Market.—Gold has been pretty firmly maintained touching 115½ on Wednesday, but subsequently ruling lower, and closing to-day at 114½@114½. It does not appear that there have been any new influences at work, and no further developments have been made by the parties interested in the present upward movement beyond the firmness noted above. With the great stringency in money gold has at times been heavy to carry, and rates paid for carrying have been higher than usual. To-day the rates paid for carrying were 7, 7 gold, 1-32, 4, 3, and 2 per cent, and for borrowing "flat." At the Treasury sale of $1,500,000 on Thursday the bids amounted to $3,975,000. Customs receipts for the week have been $2,650,000.

The following table will show the course of the gold premium each day of the past week:

Foreign Exchange.—Exchange has been pressed down to very low figures by the extreme tightness in the money market, which has led to the usual demand from stock brokers for borrowed hills to be sold for currency. Under these circumstances, prime 60 days sterling sold down to 108½, and some very good bills at a still lower figure. This morning rates were rather firmer, and were queted at 108½@108½, though business was done at a concession from these figures, and later in the day some weakness was again neticed. We quote nominal rates as follows:
